Adult Injection Training Arm, Universal

The training arm represents an adult arm and hand with accurate anatomical structures, life size, realistically showing the veins, muscles and elastic skin.

There's obvious "POP" feeling when needle punctures at injectin sites and penetrates into the vein. The skin and veins support repeated needle punctures, and are easy to repalce during use.

It can be used for the following training programs:

- Supports intramuscular injections at deltoids.
- Supports intravenous injections training.
- Supports subcutaneous injections training.
- Supports intravenous administration and infusion training.
- Supports blood transfusion and collection training.
- Supports practice of aseptic techniques.

Material: vinyl
